

JOHAN SWART

Front End Developer

I learned to develop on my own. My experience thus far has come through reading, studying, troubleshooting, and comprehending what the code block is supposed to accomplish. Due to my work as a freelance web developer for businesses, I also have experience in that area. I learned a lot about design principles and methodologies through this, and I also learned that if I encountered a flaw or difficulty, I had to do some research to figure out what was wrong. I'm a highly motivated and experienced professional with a passion for problem solving and creative solutions.
